Forest Service Man Accidentally Killed

Wound from own shotgun proves instantly fatal to Charles Lillick

One of the most regretted accidents happened at Craig Saturday when Assistant Forest Ranger, Charles Lillick, received a wound from his own shotgun which caused his instant death. Lillick and Bert Snyder had been shooting at shags in front of Lillick's house and the two started to go on down the beach farther, when Snyder turned back to get his rifle standing against the house about thirty feet away. Before he had covered two-thirds of the distance he heard Lillick shoot, and turning saw him fall to the ground. The Deputy Marshal and Commissioner were quickly called and an inquest held. The charge, which was from a 12 gauge gun, entered under the right jaw and ranging upward tore the upper part of the face away causing instant death. Lillick's body was taken on the Wanderer to Ketchikan from which place his parents in Hamilton, Montana, were notified of his death.

Princess Sophia Struck Reef.

Tried Same Rock on Which the May May was Stranded in 1910. 30 Feet Torn Off Bottom. Limped South Saturday Evening.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company took another whack at Sentinel Island, near Juneau, this week when the Princess Sophia, southbound, struck in the same spot which her sister ship, Princess May struck in the summer of 1910. From the boatmen of the Sophia, when she landed in Wrangell southbound Saturday, all that could be learned of the accident was that a 30 foot hole had been torn in her bottom forward and that her watertight compartments forward were keeping her afloat. The crew expected that the Sophia would stay tied up at Wrangell until daylight Sunday morning but she proceeded on south after a brief call.

Wrangell Solon is Progressive Legislator.

Under the above heading, and accompanying a photogravure likeness of Wrangell's representative, N. J. Svindseth, the Daily Alaska Despatch published the following tribute in a recent issue.

"The accompanying photo engraving is an excellent likeness of Representative N. J. Svindseth of Wrangell, who is the author of the Svindseth antialien fishing bill, which has been sent to the attorney general of the United States, for a ruling as to its constitutionality.

Rep. Svindseth is one of the House's ablest parliamentarians, and has frequently been called upon by Speaker Collins to preside over the deliberations of that body. He is an interested student of progressive legislation and has introduced several good bills.

Work Again Moving On the River Boat.

After nearly a weeks delay on account of non-arrival of lumber, the crew of ship carpenters, reinforced by men from Juneau, are again making things hum on the stern wheeler Nahlin. Each day since the arrival of the Al-Ki with the lumber has shown a marked progress.

The big Eastern Standard engine of 6 cylinders and 125 rated horsepower, is now in Seattle ready for shipment north as soon as the hull is ready. F. L. Clark, who recently secured a 500 ton gas engineers license will be chief on the boat.

Mayor's Letter to Council

WRANGELL, ALASKA.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE COMMON COUNCIL OF WRANGELL, ALASKA. GENTLEMEN:

Our term of office is at end, and our work is done. How well done must be left to the judgment of our individual consciences and the people. What we have done all who run may read.

The reports of the Treasurer and of the Clerk we have heard read, the report of the Auditing Committee has been submitted and approved, and we are now prepared to relinquish the reins of government to our duly elected and qualified successors.

In passing I hope a few words of praise for the members of the various committees who have done their work so faithfully and well, will not be considered out of place.

In large centers there is always to be found plenty of material for such an organization as this on which you have served. It requires no great effort to pick men who are eminently fitted and qualified by wide and diversified experience to handle problems that come before such a body in a thorough systematic and altogether business like manner. In our little town the reverse is the case; for we find in a very small population to begin with, very few men who have the inclination let alone the necessary qualifications for such service. You gentlemen who have served with me during the term just ended, have, I am sure, given of your utmost in the discharge of the duties of your office. You have worked faithfully, individually and collectively. You have adhered as strictly to "the letter of the law" in the fulfillment of your several tasks as "mere man" could be expected to, and if the displeasure of some has been incurred, some consolation may be derived from the fact that no overt act is responsible for it, but rather to ignorance or a misunderstanding on the part of those whom you serve of the laws which govern the deliberations or actions of such a body, must the blame be charged. If you have failed to carry out certain projects—a most significant reason might be advanced for the failure, namely, a lack of funds with which to do.

Referring to the Treasurer's report just read, a glance will show suffice to show what has accrued from various sources, from municipal taxes, Federal licenses, water rentals, etc. The various expenditures are clearly itemized. The report shows that to accomplish certain work, the council had just as much money at its disposal what have you done? You have enlarged and increased the capacity of the school by the addition of another room. The need of such a move no one can gainsay in the face of potent facts. Street work to the amount of $3,084.58 was petitioned for and allowed, the validity of such an expenditure, if other proof were lacking is to be found in the application signed by two-thirds of the property owners in the several instances. The School Board has received during the year as shown by the report $3,291.61. The expense of running the school this past year has been greater than heretofore, tho the reason should be apparent: an additional room meant an additional teacher, an additional stove, additional fuel and additional work for the janitor. Salaries for teachers and janitor have amounted to $330 per month and running expenses approximately $165. In round numbers the up keep of the school has cost $500 a month or $4,500 for the school year of nine months. According to the law covering school maintenance the Council may allow not less than 25 per cent and not more than 50 per cent of the Federal License money for school purposes. The Federal License money paid to Wrangell this year as shown by the Treasurer's report, amounted to $6,583.22, 50 per cent of which would be $3,281—the maximum amount allowed by the law.

Now it appears that this allowance is insufficient, what inference is to be drawn from above? Only this. If the Council had not voted the full 50 per cent the school could not possibly have been maintained except by public or private subscription. Moral—If you want something good you must expect to pay for it if funds are not sufficiently ample—either make some provision by ordinance or substitute an inferior or less expensive article. The reservoir could not be built. It is hoped the succeeding council may accomplish it. You at least have striven to make clear the need.

The lighting of the streets can unquestionably be improved, the new lights installed by the power plant for trial are evidence to the fact.

The payment of $2,150 on the water pipe interest has been made which materially lessens the burden of our successors in that direction. I am sure you are of the unanimous opinion that the balance should be wiped out at the earliest possible moment.

A President of the United States once said "a public office is a public trust." That utterance has become a household phrase. He who said this was certainly in a position to know how too frequently the office is abused. In closing I would say that I believe that in your public acts you have referred to the above axiom and by so doing you have paid a modest tribute to the statesman who coined it. I congratulate you on the happy consummation of your work. I thank the Clerk and Treasurer for their faithful attention to duties of their respective offices, and I am truly grateful to you all for the amicable relations which have characterized our association during the past year.

Faithfully Yours,

C. A. EMERY.

Danger Signs and Fence Show Something is Needed, Heavy Hauling Dangerous.

A citizens petition is being circulated this week asking the City Council for a new walk on Front street from Matheson's store to the Wrangell Electric Light and Power Company's plant. For some time past the street has been unsafe for heavy hauling and early this week began to give way in places so that two fences and danger signs now decorate the thoroughfare.

Finely Built Boat.

Demmer Bros. Brought New 64 Foot Hull in for Installing Big New Imperial Engine.

One of the strongest boats perhaps that has ever been built in this section is the new boat of the Demmer Bros., of Shakan, now in for the installation of the big Imperial engine. Sixty four feet in length with 1 and 1-2 inch planking, with each rib a yellow cedar natural crook, over forty cedar knees and an inner skin of 1 and 1-2 inch lumber fitted and caulked, she should prove wonderfully tight and strong and remain so after years of use. The boat was built by the Demmers themselves, who have worked continuously this winter on her construction, one entire month being spent in getting out the cedar crooks.

With the 55 horsepower Imperial engine, she is expected to make about seven miles per hour and to have strong towing power. The new hull was towed in from Shakan by the W. A. Kelly which looks a baby beside her new sister and will look still smaller when the house is built on the new hull.

Sentinel Sold

On May first, 1913, the ownership of the Wrangell Sentinel and job printing plant passes to Richard Bushell, Jr., managing editor of the Ketchikan Daily Miner. Any accounts due on or before that date will be payable to the present manager.

They Went Together.

Tom Meyers was a peddler in a humble way in Chicago, and he and his outfit were well known in the poorer quarters. His wagon was old and rickety, his horse had seen years of service in a street car line, and the peddler was old and feeble as his horse, which, by the way, bore the impressive name of Baron.

Saturday is always a busy day with peddlers, and one very cold Saturday Peddler Meyers had an unusually hard day. As he drove home late in the evening he noticed that Baron looked sick. He gave him a good supper of oats, rubbed him down and then went to his own supper.

An hour later he again visited Baron and found him worse. He applied such remedies as he could, and then, finding that the horse evinced a desire to lie down, he led it out of the stable and up the street.

Around and around the block he led Baron, and in the early morning a policeman found the horse lying on the street and the old peddler by his side with an arm on the animal's neck, and both were dead.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.
